Local Celebrities.

There were present at the meeting District Commissioner, Macfarland, Louis P. Shoemaker, former president of the Brightwood Citizens' Association, Col. E. B. Townsend, president of the Mount Pleasant Association, and C. C. Lancaster, president of the Northwest Suburban Association.

Commissioner Macfarland told the association the Commissioners appreciated like efforts to secure improvements for the common good, and always considered its recommendations and requests. Judge C. S. Bundy, in introducing General Harries, "the host of the evening, reviewed the rapid growth of Columbia Heights, and said this improvement in the community was due in large part to the street railway service afforded it.

There might be times when the service was not up to the ideal of his audience, but there was never a time when it was not as good as it would have been with the audience operating the road. The service would be faulty at times, but the people ought to have patience, as all would come right in the end.

The speaker concluded by saying one could not accomplish much by driving a man into a corner and throwing bricks at him in order to gain concessions. He intimated that compliants should be made to the railway officials in a diplomatic spirit, with the natural result of greater satisfaction for both sides.
